

VALUE. QUALITY. INNOVATION.

Founded in 2008, the Alliance for Home Health Quality and Innovation (the Alliance) is a 501(c)(3) foundation with a diverse membership committed to quality and innovation in home health care. The Alliance unites both non-profit and proprietary home health providers, national home care associations, and other leaders in healthcare to pursue the mission of sponsoring and fostering research and education on the value home health offers patients and the U.S. health care system.

Working with leading researchers, experts and thought leaders, and health care providers across the care continuum, the Alliance strives to foster solutions that will contribute to the national dialogue on improving health care in America.

Our Commitment to Home Health Care

■ Advancing Research and Innovation

Research at the Alliance focuses on: improving the future of home health care delivery through payment and delivery reform, patient- and person-centered care, technology, the home health workforce, and clinical innovation.

■ Promoting Quality Initiatives

More than three and a half million Medicare beneficiaries receive home health services each year, helping them to avoid unnecessary hospitalizations and other facility-based care while providing high quality services in the setting patients prefer, their homes. The Alliance strives to promote programs to help home health providers continuously improve quality of care for patients and to enhance overall efficiency in the U.S. health care system.

■ Building Partnerships

The Alliance partners and collaborates on research and education programs with other organizations in health care to promote and advance quality and innovation.

■ Educating the Health Care Community

The Alliance supports strong education and training programs, resources and information for home health care professionals that promote innovative solutions in the field.
